

Presidents Helping Children EXHIBIT

Eight banners are meant to be hung outside. Six have the portrait of a past president along with the president's significant contribution toward helping children. The seventh and eighth banners are long and vertical, one with an image of children, and one with an image of Barack Obama and the words "Welcome President Obama." Twelve banners easily assemble to be displayed indoors. Ten have the portraits of past presidents along with details of their child-friendly contributions. One of the other two banners has an image of President Obama with the words "Presidents Helping Children" and the last one, pictured right, has a letter from ECM President Michael Petit about the importance of investing in kids, along with startling child-welfare statistics.
